THE BIG

S COOP

Art on the Streets (AOS) is proudly presented by US Bank and Nor'wood Development Group in concert with Downtown Partnership of Colorado Springs and its affiliate, Community Ventures, Inc. In its ninth year, AOS is a yearlong venue to showcase the works of new as well as celebrated artists from across the nation while enlivening the Downtown Colorado Springs cityscape and urban experience.

Downtown Colorado Springs is committed to broadening its artistic and cultural offerings to provide a diverse and exciting physical environment, enhance the quality of life, encourage dialogue and learning, and influence economic growth.

A wide range of artistic expression, varied talent and cultural context are primary AOS objectives. While sculpture tends to dominate the entry pool, other types of public art suitable for outdoor display are highly encouraged. Large-scale, outside-the-box, can't-be-missed pieces are desirable. The only common denominator among selected works is the durability, safety and quality of the art.

Total number of selected pieces depends on the scope and quality of entries; however, typically the exhibit ranges between 10 and 15 pieces. Juror Bruce Guenther will announce all of the selections and personally introduce the award winners at the July 20, 2007 opening reception. The exhibit will run through June of 2008.

A color brochure of the AOS exhibit—including photos of the artwork, artists' biographies and a walking tour map—will be produced and released through the Downtown Partnership, Community Ventures, Inc., Convention & Visitors Bureau, Chamber of Commerce, Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center, Pikes Peak Library District and numerous downtown businesses. It will also be available online at www.artonthestreets.com.

WHERE YOU WANT TO BE SEEN

S CENE

Selected artwork will be exhibited throughout the 40-square-block downtown district, with the majority of pieces clustered in the busiest 10- to 15-block core.

Located at the foot of Pikes Peak, Downtown Colorado Springs is the hot spot of Colorado's second largest city. The district features several hundred eclectic restaurants, nightclubs, unique retail, museums and other cultural draws, as well as burgeoning urban housing and a workforce of 30,000. Trails, parks and public amenities intersect throughout downtown, facilitating a high-energy pedestrian experience. Downtown Colorado Springs is in the midst of an exciting renaissance with ongoing development of mixed-use high-rises, renovation of historical properties, growth in arts and culture, and recruitment of unique independent retail and major primary businesses.

The metropolitan area is home to more than a half-million people and is growing. In 2006, CNN/Money named Colorado Springs 1st in Best Places to Live/Best Big Cities. Forbes ranked the city 13th for Best Place for Business & Career and Men's Fitness rated it as the 3rd Fittest City.

More than six million regional, national and international tourists come to Colorado Springs each year.
